Hello Kim:

Can you send me the latest list of CAG email addresses? I'll update the OneDrive link from it.

Thanks,

Jesse

Jesse, Jennifer,

When do you anticipate you will be ready to host your next meeting for the CAG regarding the Remedial Investigation?

Also, my link to the One Drive site is no longer working and several other CAG members are without access. Will you please send out the link and access when you return to the office?

Thank you.

Kim

Hello Kim:

The meetings will be held at a time similar to the previous meetings. The email that I sent did not suggest otherwise.

Jesse,

At the last two CAG meetings you stated that the EPA would provide updates at quarterly CAG meetings. What has changed?

As most, of not all, CAG members hold day jobs, attending day time meetings is not an option. As the CAG is an EPA vehicle for communicating superfund information, your suggestion that EPA will not attend quarterly CAG meetings reneges on EPA's commitment to the community.

I ask that you reconsider your position.

Regards,

Kim

Hello Kim:

The Superfund activity at the site is the remedial investigation. Since this is a slower process, EPA will hold a meeting informing of activities at the site, at most, every quarter. Those meetings will have a translator. The CAG and other groups will be invited to the meeting. The CAG will continue to receive access to draft documents through OneDrive.

Subject: EPA and CAG

Jesse,

As the CAG is a community resource offered by the EPA and the VB/I-70 has continuing work to educate community members and to advise on remaining activity within the site, I am contacting you to determine what resources the EPA will continue to provide to our group as it moves from a government led to community led group. The EPA website states:

What Other Support Can EPA Provide To Our CAG?

EPA, together with State/Tribal/local government(s), local universities, the PRP(s), and others, may assist the CAG with administrative support on issues relevant to the Superfund site cleanup and decision-making process. This may include support for arranging and documenting meetings, preparing and distributing meeting notices and agendas, duplicating site-related documents for CAG review, maintaining CAG mailing/distribution lists, and providing translation and meeting facilitation services when needed. If meeting facilitation is needed, it is preferable to use someone from the community with facilitation experience or a professional meeting facilitator. A neutral facilitator is particularly effective at sites where some controversy is anticipated.

Will the EPA assist us printing documents and translation services?

Regards,

Kim
